Organ settled at last - The Departments -Clerks-Reform, &c .- Post Master General and Contractors-New Yorkers-The Benton-Van Buren-Wright Clique and the Collectorship— Arabian Horses—Commissioner of the Land Of-

Globe of last evening, is on its legs at last, and will now I suppose play administration music. Blair retires mest savagely. He is evidently out of temper, and to use a familiar phrase, "dies hard." Mr. Ritchie, however, will not assume editorial charge of the organ until ster the Virginia elections, until whien it remains in status goo, unless Mr. Green, Mr. Ritchie's son-in-law, who has hitherto acted as his attorney, should continue so to act in the capacity of Editor. I have not heard of any one else who is to act as Editor, pro tem., but perhaps Mr. Bancroft may assume that position, as he is afflicted with the cacoethes scribendi. You will perceive by the articles of agreement, that Blair and Rives are to retain the balance of the Coargressional printing not yet completed, notwith-standing the sale of all the materials to Ritchie and Heise, and I am further informed, though I cannot vouch for its truth, that Blair is so mad at the summary manner in which he has been ejected, that he is about to make, or actually has made, arrangements to transfer this unfinished portion of the printing, and which is by no means inconsiderable, to Messra Gales & Seaton, of the National Intelligence. This, if done, will testify in the strongest possible manner, the cordial (?) state of feeling entertained by the old official Editor towards the new one, and will also be a fit proof of the great gratitude felt by Blair and Rives towards the democracy, when they transfer printing which they have obtained at their hands, to the possession of their political opponents, sooner than sive the benefit of it to their new successors.

The President has issued a circular to all the heads of bureaus and departments in relation to the duties of the clerks, and the attendance at the offices. It has heretofore been the practice of those who were best paid to do the least work. Many of them have not one day with another performed thirty minutes work. He has also ordered that the bears of the manner in which they are attended to in one than Globe of last evening, is on its legs at last, and will now I suppose play administration music. Blair retires most savagely. He is evidently out of tem-for its adoption, in order to compet the definquent clerks to "pay up."

The Postmaster General has not yet decided upon the case presented for his consideration by the Post coach proprietors, in relation to the new contracts. This day, at 9 o'clock, the time for receiving bids for contracts expired. What will be the course pursued by the Postmaster General, in relation to these contracts is yet a matter of doubt, but I hardly think he will give way. The contractors say that many of them have their all embarked in their stock of coaches and horses, and if they are underbid, and the new law to go into operators say that many of them have their all embarked in their stock of coaches and horses, and if they are underbid, and the new law to go into operation, which provides that the underbidder shall not be required to take their steck off their hands, and they not be allowed time to dispose of their stocks, they will be irretrievably ruined. I am informed that it is supposed the bids for contracts, now before the Postmaster General, will not amount to one half the sum that the same contracts obtained at the last letting. This would augur well for the new postage system, and would seem to promise that there will not be so great a defficiency after all, notwithstanding the croaking of the opponents of this great measure.

The contractors this morning, to the number of 200, according to their custom waited upon the President, and were introduced to him by the Postmaster General, Cave Johnson, who was attended also by his First Assistant, Major Hebbie. The number who went up to the White House exceeded 200, and displayed a set of fine hearty men, with hard, shrewd, intelligent faces, many of them being apparently men of great mental power.

There are a goodly number of New Yorkers pouring into the city just now, some of them I suppose to look after offices for the medical and there pose to look after offices for themselves, and others for their friends. Among those here are Mr. Maclay, M. C. from New York; Moses G. Leonard, ex. M. C., who is perhaps here to look after the Post Office in your city, which he is said to want badly. Captain Rynders, the Don Giovanni, is also here, looking as fresh and hearty as ever, and, as I suppose, come to regulate the loaves and fishes, as he has just ceased from his labors in regulating the election in New York City. Mr. Kelly, of your city, the former gentlemanly Deputy Clerk of the Sessions, I also notice here, attending to matters and things in general, together with a vast number of others.

Sessions, I also notice here, attending to matters and things in general, together with a vast number of others.

The Van Buren-Wright clique is here, working as actively as ever; but I have ascertained, on very excellent authority, that the rumors of the removal of Mr. Van Ness, and the appointment of Mr. Coddington and Mr. Morris, have their origin solely in the fertile brains of various individuals of this clique, which wishes that to prove true which they so industriously report is true. I am likewise informed that nothing has as yet been done in relation to the New York appointments at all. Mr. Van Ness will certainly be retained, if any reliance is to be placed on the assertions of those who ought to know, notwithstanding the industrious labors of the Benton-Van Buren-Wright clique, who very confidently asserted that it would be impossible to carry the city of New York by the democracy unless Mr. Van Ness were removed previously to the election; and if my information is to be credited that same clique would have had the election lost if they could, in order to prove their prophecies true, and bring the President under their management in the disposal of offices, as they would then not only have insisted on having the city offices at their disposal, but also others, and very probably would have required Mr. Marcy's retiracy, to make way for a Beaton-Van Buren-Wright man, under threat of losing the State in the fall thereby.

The Arabian horses sent as a present to the President of Alleghania, by the Imaum of Muscat, were to-day sold at auction. One brought the price of $450, the purchaser being a midshipman named Shields, and the other $190, being sold to a Dr. Baldwin, of New Orleans, who says he would not take $300 for it. They are little, scrubby looking animals, in appearance, and persons not acquainted with their breed would probably think them dear at $75; but though "they are rum uns to look at" they may be very "good uns to go."

Judge Shields, of Illinois, arrived in this city last night. He is, i

The New Postage Law.

As the new postage law will come into operation on the 1st of July, it will doubtless be of great interest to the public generally to know the views and action of the Postmaster General in relation to it, and as this will be best exhibited by the instructions to the Deputy Postmasters throughout the country, I have therefore procured the following synopsis of that document, which is now being prepared at the Post Office Department. It gives at a glance a general view of the intentions of the Postmaster General.

Postage on Letters.—Under half an ounce weight for not more than 300 miles, 5 cents; over 300 miles 10 cents. For each half ounce additional, or for every fractional excess of half an onnee, an additional postage of 50 r 10 cents, according to distance. Each office to have a balance to determine the weight. Drop letters 2 cents each. Advertised letters 2 cents additional each, or if published in two papers, 4 cents. On printed or lithographic circulars, not scaled, 2 cents, for any distance. When scaled rated as letters. The quarto, post, and single cap, to which this circular rate of postage is limited, is, the former about 10 inches by 8 to the page, and the latter 13 by 8. If the pager exceed the size of single cap, it is to be rated as a pamphlet. On all pamphlets, magazines, periodicals, and every other kind of printed matter, (except newspapers,) and also except circulars, as above, which shall be unconnected with any manuscript communication, 2; cents for each copy, not weighing mere than an ounce, for any distance—each udditional ounce, I cent, and each fractional excess of more than half an ounce, to be charged an ounce, but less than half an ounce, to be charged an ounce, but less than half an ounce, to be charged an ounce, but less than half an ounce, literature, politics news, &c., &c. Newspapers gefree any distance not exceeding 30 miles from the place where printed, when sent by the editors or publishers thereof, and if not ex.

oreding 1,900 superficial inches in extent. Over 30 miles distance, within the State where published, I cent. Over 100 miles out of the State where published, I cents. A newspaper exceeding 1 900 inches, to be charged pamphlet postage. A newspaper is defined to be any printed publication, issued in numbers, and published at stated intervals of not more than a month, conveying intelligence of passing events. It generally consists of a sheet, but may consists of two sheets, and is chargeable with only single newspaper postage, if the size of the two sheets together, do not exceed 1,900 inches. If more than that, it is to be rated pamphlet postage. A bona fide extra or supplement rated as a separate newspaper. When they are styled extra or supplementary newspapers, but are in fact advertisements or circulars, they will be charged as such, with two cents each sheet, if not larger than single cap, or quarte post; if larger, as pamphlets. certainty, and security. The under bidder not to be required to take the old contractor's stock. Railroad routes, including those partly railroad and partly steambost, to be arranged in three classes, according to the size of the mails, the speed with which they are conveyed, and the importance of the service. Meximum rate of compensation not to exceed—1st class, the rete now allowed by law; 2d class, $100 per mile per annum; 3d class, $60 per mile per annum; 3d class, $60 per mile per annum. If half the service is performed in the olight, the compensation may be increased 25 per cent. If the P. M. G. finds it necessary to send more than two mails daily, he may pay such additionel rate of compensation as he may think just and reasonable. If he cannot conclude centracts for carrying the mails on the railroads at the above maximum rates, and at such portions as he shall deem fair and reasonable, he may separate the letter mail from the residue, and contract for its conveyance to mail from the residue, and contract for its conveyance sy horse express, or otherwise, at the greatest speed that can be reasonably obtained, and contract for the residue at a slower rate of speed. He may make contracts with a railroad company, either with or without advertising; also, for conveying the letter mail by express or etherwise, and also for the residue. The P. M. G. may contract for conveyance of mail in steamboats on the western or other waters of Alleghania, for any length of time or number of trips, without advertising, if in his opinion, the public interests and convenience will be promoted thereby. In such case, the price is not to exceed the average paid under the last preceding, or then existing contracts on such ronter.

Private Expresses.—The establishment of private expresses for the conveyance of mailable matter, (newspapers, pamphlets, magazines, and periodicals excepted) is prohibited. So is the causing to be conveyed any such matter by regular trips out of the mail. Every person offepding herein, or assisting, to foreit $150 for each time any mailable matter, as above, is conveyed. A like fine of $120 on the owners of any stage coach, railroad car, steamboat or other vehicle, which shall, with the knowledge or connivance of the driver, &c., transport any person acting as agent, &c. of such private express and in possession of such mailable matter. This is not to prohibit the conveyance of latters, &c., by private hands, no compensation being tendered or received therefor in any way, or by special messenger employed only for this single occasion. Stage coaches, railroads, steamboats, &c. on any mail route, are prohibited from transporting such mailable matter as above except in the family and except such as may relate to some part of the load or cargo. The owners, managers, &c., of such are also prohibited For each offence, although it is not yet quite to be transmitted by mail.

An injunction is to be given to the Postmasters to match of the such as a such as a such as a such as a such [Correspondence of the Herald ] PHILADELPHIA, April 16, 1845.

The moment has arrived when I must commence my letter, and as yet I have received no information from Harrisburg. The general belief is that the Girard Bank agreed to accept the charter passed by the late Legislature. It has the individual responsibility clause A similar one, granted last session was rejected, and the present acceptance by the stockholders, and the unanimity and rapidity with which they have acted, proves that even such a charter is worth something, and that the predictiens made by the stockholders last year are all moonshine, and begets a suspicion that some foul work was meditated. This bank tried to force the people to give them such a charter as they wanted—one that would allow their officers to embark in all sorts of speculation;

but when that could not be done, they gladly took just such an one as they could get. This s just the course the people may expect all their banks to pursue when they want favors from the Legislature.

Our city has been shaken for the last two or three days
by rumors of war with M xico, but no confidence seems to be placed in them. It is thought that Mexico may
